Annual General Meeting

Guangzhou | China

13th to 17th November 2013
Programme

中国广州

Welcome to Guangzhou, City of Flowers!
Guangzhou has been the window for China's foreign trade, a metropolitan city that has an antique beauty with a history of over two thousand years.

The beautiful urban lighting of Guangzhou first caught the eye of the public during the 16th Asian Games held here in 2010. In the following years, Guangzhou, which is also the host city of the annual lighting event, the Guangzhou International Light Festival, has greatly promoted low-carbon and energy-saving technologies, installing over 130 000 LED street lamps in the suburbs.

We are proud to be given the honour to hold LUCI's Annual General Meeting in 2013, to be able to present to you what we've achieved, and above all, to share ideas and experience with all LUCI members on urban lighting strategy and development.

Welcome and enjoy your stay in our city!

Chen Jianhua
Mayor of Guangzhou

After celebrating the 10th anniversary of the LUCI network in South America last year, the LUCI Annual General Meeting 2013 in Guangzhou will offer a new and unique occasion for our network to continue broadening its international horizons.

LUCI members will have the opportunity to discover one of China's leading and pioneering cities in urban lighting. A city that has greatly invested in the use of new technologies to improve its street lighting, and that has sought to connect urban development and lighting design in the most harmonious way. Learning from other cities worldwide, Guangzhou also launched a light festival in 2011.

It is in this unique context and culture of lighting that LUCI members are invited to reflect, discuss and debate on the network's projects and perspectives. This AGM also opens even greater spaces and opportunities for participants to exchange on their lighting projects and festivals with a whole afternoon dedicated to the Open Conference sessions.

I would like to thank the City of Guangzhou for hosting this Annual General Meeting 2013 and I look forward to an enriching and fruitful event!

Martine De Regge
LUCI President
Deputy Mayor of Ghent

The focus will be on specific measures related to the “Special Planning on Beijing Street Lighting and Landscape Lighting for the Twelfth Five-year Period”, as well as the objectives accomplished.

A graduate of the Beijing Architectural Engineering Institute with a major in roads and bridges, Liang Hong Liu has been engaged in municipal engineering administration throughout her career. As the Head of the Urban Lighting Management Division, Beijing Municipal Administration Commission, she is dedicated to urban lighting management.

9:30 The Shanghai calling card - landscape lighting

Ding Qin Hua, Deputy Chief Engineer and Director of Landscape Management, Shanghai Afforestation and City Appearance Administration

With the economic and social development brought about by reforms thirty years ago, Shanghai’s urban landscape lighting has grown rapidly, covering the city’s landscape with different lighting styles, colors, elegant tranquility and flashing rhythms, and making it a city that never sleeps. The landscape lighting of Shanghai has been attracting visitors from China and abroad and this significantly contributes to the social and economic development of the city and its competitiveness in the international arena.

Ding Qin Hua is an engineer and economist. Since 2000, he has been engaged in urban ecology, eco-industries and ecological landscape as the Director of Forestry Department at the Shanghai Bureau of Agriculture and Forestry, and the Director of Resource Management Division at the Shanghai Administration of Afforestation. He has been awarded the “National Afforestation Medal” and the “Vanguard of Shanghai New Long March” award. He has been at his current position since 2009.

10:00 The lighting master plan of Chongqing

Wang De Gang, Deputy Director, Chongqing Urban Lighting Administration

The Chongqing Municipal Administration Commission and the Chongqing Urban Lighting Administration jointly launched the “Chongqing Urban Lighting Plan”, which is divided into pre-survey/evaluation and implementation stages. The first stage consists of investigation and experimental work related to the current status of street lighting, landscape lighting and advertisement lighting. The second stage concerns implementation. Issues such as the night landscape, lighting object classification, functional illumination classification standards, technical control of landscape light planning, and short and long term construction plans are included in the plan.

Wang De Gang, who is responsible for planning, technology, energy saving and emission reduction in the Chongqing Urban Lighting Administration, has been involved in urban lighting and management for fifteen years. He is one of the principal persons behind the Chongqing Urban Lighting Plan and has participated in the establishment of a digital integrated management platform for Chongqing’s urban lighting, as well as the revision of urban lighting maintenance methods, planning, regulations and other municipal standards.

10:30 Urban development and green lighting

Li Shuhua, President of China Association of Lighting Integrators (CALI)

Li Shuhua will discuss the development of the lighting industry in China. She will address the value of light in cities, and give a brief analysis of how professional lighting projects are planned in China through various case studies. Ms. Li will also give her point of view on how better lighting can contribute to a better quality of life.

Friday November 15

Li Shuhua graduated from Tianjin University of Finance and Economics in 1993 and received an EMBA certificate from Nankai University in 2009. She has been the President and General Manager of Tianjin Huacai Electronic Science and Technology Co. Ltd. since she set up the company.
