

Why join LUCI?

Being an Associated Member of LUCI offers a clear set of benefits.

1. Networking

LUCI provides its members with a global and diverse network of peers and experts coming from cities, lighting manufacturers, service companies, design studios, universities, light festival organisers and more. Our network has over 20 years of existence, is present in over 35 countries and is both a closely knit group and an expanding and open network.

By becoming a LUCI associated member, your organisation gains access to a platform that facilitates networking and sharing and gives opportunities to connect to potential partners. Members truly benefit from the collective knowledge and expertise inside LUCI, to contribute to the advancement of urban lighting strategies and solutions.

See for example... LUCI Events, LUCI members

2. Visibility

LUCI membership offers organisations the opportunity to enhance their visibility on the international stage, among decision makers and top urban lighting experts. The exposure, during in person activities as well as online will give recognition to your expertise globally and locally.

On many occasions, Associated members are invited to take the floor at events, participate in working groups or contribute to publications. Associated members can also sponsor events or projects giving them an extra role to support the network and shape the future of urban lighting.

See for example... LUCI Working groups, LUCI Publications

3. Awareness

LUCI is the perfect place for sharing knowledge and best practices in urban lighting at a macro level. Members learn together from successful projects, research updates, new technology approaches, and the latest trends and market developments. Associated members specifically gain from hearing firsthand the experiences and needs of cities and can leverage this knowledge to improve their own initiatives.

LUCI organizes events on a regular basis, face to face as well as online, where members engage in in depth discussions and gain insights through presentations and interactive sessions.
